The Fishing Otter.

The otter used by Scottish poachers is one of the most deadly fishing instruments known. In some waters it is far more effective than a net. It may be described as a water kite, which serves to take out over the water a line bearing 50 or more flies. The otter itself is a floating piece of board leading along one edge to keep it upright. The poacher walks along the side of loch or river, letting out the fly decorated line as he goes, the otter board gradually working out toward the center. An enormous area of water is fished at one time and numbers of fish are killed.

An Awakener.

A preacher, raising his eyes from his desk in the midst of his sermon, was paralyzed with amazement to see his rude son in the gallery petting the hearers in the pews below with horse chestnuts. But while the good man was preparing a frown of reproof the young boy cried out: "You 'tend to your preaching, daddy I'll keep 'em awake."

Barnum's Monkeys

"All well—all happy—lots of fun". That is the regular report from the monkey cage of Barnum's Circus ever since the keepers began dosing the monkeys with Scott's Emulsion. Consumption was carrying off two thirds of them every year and the circus had to buy new ones.

One day a keeper accidentally broke a bottle of Scott's Emulsion near the monkey cage and the monkeys eagerly lapped it up from the floor. This suggested the idea that it might do them good. Since then the monkeys have received regular doses and the keepers report very few deaths from consumption. Of course it's cheaper to buy Scott's Emulsion than new monkeys—and that suits the circus men.

Consumption in monkeys and in man is the same disease. If you have it or are threatened with it can you take the hint?

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle.

AFTER THE QUARREL.

A single smile from her rosy mouth, A sudden glance from her soft eyes sent, And he turned, as the wind veers north of south, And followed whither her light feet went. Did she linger and look for a moment then? Did she lift her face and smile again? Even so!

The heart of a girl, ah, who may know?

With every pace of his swift pursuit Her step she quickened not looked behind Eyes were speechless, and lips were mute; Never a glance or word of kind, As if she cherished no thought nor care For the eager footfalls hurrying there.

Was it so?

The heart of a girl, ah, who may know?

Did she love him more when look and smile Silently bade him to follow her? Did she love him less when she wore her wife His heart to trouble, his hope to defer? Nay, read you this riddle, strange, but true— She loved him most when she most withdrew!

Even so!

The heart of a girl, ah, who may know? —Blanche Tremor Heath in Atlanta Constitution.

CAUGHT IN AN EXPLOSION.

A Miner's Description of His Feelings When He Was Blown Up.

A miner who was blown up while blasting a rock describes his sensations thus:

"You see, it's so sudden. It's over just about the time you begin to understand that something is happening. You know, I had the cartridge in my hand and put it down. Then I got afraid of it. All at once everything was light. I don't think I saw the flash. Anyway my face was not exactly toward the explosion.

"But then everything got light, lighter than day—kind of blinding. There was an awful crash. It was just at the same time. I was terrified and wanted to get away. It was just as if I was having the nightmare. Somehow, though, I knew just what the matter was. A man can think faster than he has any idea of. I knew that some of the others were nearer the explosion, and I said to myself, 'They're blown in bits, that's certain.'"

You understand, this was all in a second—at once, really. Then it was exactly the same as if I had been hit with a stick. I thought it was a big stick, bigger than any man could swing, and that it must be worked by machinery. It hit me on the head and all over. I went sailing into the air a long, long way. My ears roared, and the wind blew into my face. I knew when I struck the ground, for I remember saying to myself, 'Well, I'm done for.' "You don't know just when I lost my right senses or when they came back, but when they did come back it seemed queer that I was there still. I thought I had been thrown somewhere else. I could feel fire burning me. It was my clothes. They were smoking and almost blazing. I was bruised all over and could not hear very well. My voice sounded as though somebody else were talking. That's all I can tell you about it."

Hawk and Partridge.

In "Reminiscences of a Falconer" Major Fisher describes the tactics of a partridge when pursued by a tame falcon.

The falcon was descending upon the partridge when the partridge stopped short and fell to the ground as if dead. He seemed to be lost in the short stubble of the field. He was far too knowing to trust himself again on the wing, and the hawk had no alternative but to take him to the ground, which he speedily attempted to do.

But on the ground the partridge was far more agile than he, running this way and that with great speed. The hawk would jump awkwardly up and down after the scudding partridge, who just at the right moment jumped from the ground and over his back, descended on the other side and commenced running harder than before.

Time after time this was done. At every attempt the partridge met the hawk with outstretched neck and raised hackles, in the attitude of a fighting bantam cock, jumping up to avoid being clutched whenever the hawk struck at him. In fact, his whole action was that of a plucky little game bantam. This went on for some time, until, as I regret to say, I ended the unequal strife by putting the partridge once more fairly on the wing, when, of course, the hawk readily overtook and captured it, not overmuch to his credit and still less to mine.

A Fish and Lizard Story.

One afternoon I thought I would go down the river and troll. I had on my hook a live minnow and in a little while had a strike, and I hooked my first fish, which seemed to be quite a large one. I reeled him where I could see him and found it was a large pike 25 or 30 inches long. I pulled him up to my boat, but when I lifted him from the water he was as light as a feather. I measured him and found he was just 30 inches long and should have weighed eight or nine pounds, while he only weighed two. He was just skin and bones. I killed him, took my knife and cut him open and found a live lizard, five inches long, in his stomach. The reptile was as black as coal and very lively, living 24 hours after I took him from his prison.—Field and Stream.

Without a Ring.

EYES, EARS, NOSE AND THROAT

A Bit of Realism.

An instance of the way in which the acting of a play grows may be taken from Ellen Terry's playing in "Mme. Sans-Gene." In the play in question the washerwoman duchess is having a lesson from a professor of dancing.

The business of the play requires her to be awkward in her attempts at dancing, and the actress is awkward, delightfully awkward. She has put on a long riding habit in order to become accustomed to manipulate her court train in the dance and is so much troubled with it that finally she tucks it over her arm while she is learning to take the steps. The train keeps slipping off her arm and has to be perpetually replaced, and the episode is a cause of much boisterous amusement.

One night in a great English manufacturing city she was playing the part with even more than her usual comedy. She was lost in the assumed character so thoroughly that it was real to her, and the ex-washerwoman, with her mind harassed and worried by the trying conditions of her artificial court life, instinctively returned to the habits of her youth. In a moment of abstraction, finding the fat coil of stuff across her arm, she instinctively began to wring it out. The response of the audience was electrical. Every woman—quickly and permanently—is also recognized the sincerity of the action. This moment of creative instinct was recorded in the actress mind and has been repeated ever since.—Cosmopolitan.

Analyzing His Affection.

The young lovers sat beside the water wheel. The rapid and the nearby whirlpool had a strange attraction for the romantic young girl. She had heard the story of the unhappy Indian maiden and the young brave who had gone to their doom, clasped in each other's arms, to the slow music of the "Swan Song." That seemed very beautiful to her.

"Tack," she said, "if you saw me struggling in the water near the edge of the falls, would you jump in after me?"

"What would be the use, my dear, when I can't swim?" he answered.

"But at least we could perish together," she replied bravely.

"Yes, there would be no doubt of that," he returned, shuddering at the sound of the cruel waters.

"But haven't you often said you would die for me?" she asked, piqued at his coldness.

"No, my dear," replied her practical lover. "If you'll remember, I've always told you that I had an undying love for you!"—Smart Set.

Give Everybody a Chance.

Emerson's dictum that we should treat every one as if he were all we ought to be is an excellent rule to practice in daily life. It is human nature to rise to the level that is expected of it. It is not necessary to waste time upon unconvincing people unless you are bound to them by strong family ties, but it is important that all with whom you come in contact be studied, with the desire on your part to give credit for all that is good in them and that nothing in their outward circumstances or appearance be allowed to prejudice you against them.—Ada Q. Sweet in Woman's Home Companion.

A BIG WEDDING FEE.

The Generous Uses to Which Henry Ward Beecher Put It.

In his "Eccentricities of Genius" Major Pond says that often while traveling Henry Ward Beecher improved his time by having what he called "a general housecleaning" of his pockets, which would get loaded up with letters and papers until they could hold no more, when he would clear them out and destroy such papers as were worthless.

On one occasion Beecher happened to put his hand in the watch pocket of his pantaloons and found there a little envelope which he opened. When he saw its contents he called Major Pond to sit beside him and remarked: "You remember the evening I married C. P. Huntington. I was so much interested in the subject that I forgot he handed me a little envelope as he went out of the door. I put it in the watch pocket of my pantaloons and never thought of it again until just now, and here it is, four $1,000 bills. Now," he said, "don't tell any one about it, and we will have a good time and make some happiness with this money. We will just consider that we found it."

And so in a day or two Mr. Beecher went with Major Pond to look at a cargo of the oriental rugs, many of which he purchased and sent to different friends, and afterward he spent what remained of the money for coin silver lamps, unmounted gems and various pieces of bric-a-brac, all of which he gave away until he had used up the entire $4,000 "in making happiness among those whom he loved."

After Mr. Beecher's death the major related to Mr. Huntington the incident of this discovery of the four $1,000 bills, and the railway magnate observed: "I should never have given them to him. It was all wrong. I made a mistake. Money never did him any good."

The Questions of Clarence.

"Well, Clarence, what is it?" asked the boy's papa.

"I didn't say anything, papa," replied Clarence.

"I know you didn't, but it is fully five minutes since you asked a question, and I know from experience that an other is due about this time."

"Well, papa, what are all those big United States flags made of?" asked the boy.

"Some of them are made of silk, Clarence, but by far the greater number are made of bunting."

"And, papa?"

"Well, Clarence?"

"Are the little flags made of baby bunting?"—Pittsburg Commercial-Gazette.

A Rat(U)snake Story.

In "Life and Sport on the Pacific Coast," Horace A. Vachell relates one of his narrow escapes from a friend's bullet: "My cousin and I had been camping and hunting for several days in a sort of paradise valley. One day, during a long ride on horseback, we had seen a great many rattlesnakes and killed a few, an exceptional experience. That night my cousin woke up and saw, by the light of the moon, a big rattler crawling across my chest. He lay for a moment fascinated, horror-struck, watching the sinuous curves of the reptile.

"Then he quietly reached for his six shooter, but he could not see the reptile's head, and he moved nearer, noiselessly, yet quickly, dreading some movement on my part that should precipitate the very thing he dreaded, and then he saw that it was not a snake at all—only the black and yellow stripe of my blanket, which gently rose and fell as I breathed. Had he fired—well, it might have been bad for me, for he confessed that his hand shook."

12 Minutes for Lunch.

That is the average time spent in a large city restaurant by three thousand lunchers. It takes three hours to digest a boiled soft-boiled; three hours to digest a boiled apple dumpling; three hours to digest fresh roast beef. In fact, three hours is the time required to digest the average twelve minute lunch. The object of the hasty lunch is to let the busy man get back to his office work. But when the brain is active, the stomach is inactive for lack of necessary blood. The natural consequence is indigestion, and indigestion opens the door to many diseases.

Indigestion is cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

"It is with heartfelt gratitude that I send this testimonial which I wish you to publish with my name and address," writes Mr. Willis Seaman, of Washington, Orange Co., N. H. "I may confess to have been a nervous and suffering man for many years, and I have suffered with it more or less as I grew up. At the age of 29 I was broken down by a nervous condition. My wife was very kind and tried to nurse me, but I was so nervous that I could not eat without distress. Could only get a few certain things, and was not able to work half the time. Every thing I tried only gave me temporary relief. My wife finally persuaded me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I took six bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and six bottles of 'Pleasant Pellets.' I felt so well that I stopped taking medicine. Several months have passed and I can do the hardest kind of work, can eat anything that is set before me and enjoy it. I am 27 years old and this is the first time I have ever been well."

Free. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser in paper covers is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only; or 31 stamps for cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Burt Beverly, late salesman in the great wholesale house of Marshall Field and Company of New York, with his wife and two interesting children, are in Jackson, guests of F. M. Whitmore, the lumberman, who is the uncle of Mrs. Beverly. Mr. Beverly comes to California seeking to restore his impaired health.

Nearly all the horses in the county have been afflicted with a disease that was pronounced by horsemen to be epizootic. Many horses and mules were greatly reduced in flesh, and many had to be taken from their work and doctored up. It has about run out, apparently, and but few cases of it are now known.

Last Saturday Miss Morrow took a class of her children on another mountain climbing expedition. This time they climbed the high hill beyond the Kennedy, and were unlucky enough to start home a little too late and were caught in the rain. They took shelter in one of the buildings of the Kennedy.

John Harvey, employed at the Bunker Hill mine, met with a severe accident last Saturday. While engaged in handling logs, one of the heavy timbers rolled on his leg. The extent of the injury could not be ascertained until surgical aid was summoned, but it was thought that the leg had been broken.

On Saturday last Martin Drobatz was badly cut and bruised while engaged in stopping at the Oneida mine. The plank he was standing on gave way, and he fell quite a distance to the bottom. He was severely cut about the face and body, but fortunately no bones were broken. He will be able to return to work in a few days. Dr. Endicott is attending him.

Guy Francis, representing the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company of Hartford, was in Jackson Monday, attending to business in relation to that company. While here he made a change in the resident agent. F. G. Flood and R. Webb are now the agents for this strong and reliable company, and are prepared to accept risks for the same in any part of Amador county.

A letter was received by Mrs. Folger from a friend in Vallejo stating that Tom Bennetts, a young man well known here, son of James Bennetts and grandson of Mrs. Jane Sobey, met with a serious accident at the navy yard at Mare Island last Tuesday. His arm got caught in the machinery and was so badly mangled that it had to be amputated. No particulars were given.

Miss Grace Folger and other members of her school class got up a Halloween party in Webb hall Thursday evening, which was participated in by between 30 and 40 young folks of both sexes. They had an enjoyable time in singing, dancing, and other amusements. Refreshments were served, and the party broke up at 1 o'clock, all thoroughly satisfied with the evening's pleasure.

On account of the heavy rains, work was suspended at the Tabaud reservoir from Saturday until Wednesday morning. Five and a half inches of rain fell at the camp during the last storm. Work is again in full blast, and it is expected to have the reservoir completed in less than a month, with anything like working weather. E. B. Stone, one of the contractors, came up from Oakland last Wednesday, and proceeded to the reservoir to inspect the work.

There is quite a legal contest on in relation to the recovery of a beer regulator sold by John Raddatz of Sutter Creek to Mrs. Ryan some time ago. The regulator was not all paid for, and Tom Ryan leased the place from his mother. Raddatz sued for the recovery of the property, and secured judgment in the justice court of Sutter Creek, and was proceeding to remove the machine, when he was stopped by a notice of appeal to the superior court given by C. H. Crocker, Ryan's attorney.

Tony Lubimar and others have rented the Olympus basement for club room and other purposes. It will not be used for restaurant or saloon under present terms of rent. It will probably be used for amusements, such as instructions in dancing and for practice by the band, or for furnishing supper for dances and such like purposes, for which it is admirably adapted. There is talk of getting up a reading room and also having in connection therewith innocent amusements such as card-playing, checkers, and other games, for which it is also adapted.

Mrs. Bessie Sherman, on whose account the killing of Sherman, her husband, by Frank Elliott occurred in San Jose last year, was formerly Miss Bessie Bray, who some years back lived in Jackson with her parents. About 14 years ago they moved to Stockton, where her father died of miner's consumption. There were five or six children, Bessie being the youngest of the three girls. Several years back she was in the stage traveling between Copperopolis and Angels, when it was held up, and a passenger, Miss Bunney, a cousin of Miss Bray's, was shot in the face.

A young man named Andrew Malaspina, living with his parents on the Angels road near Hawkeye, suicided last Monday by shooting himself in the head with a pistol. Ill health was the cause for the act.

A Quiet Wedding.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place last Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, at Amador City, when Miss Elizabeth Culbert was married to Charles E. Bunker, the popular young millman of the Keystone mine. The parlor was decorated most tastefully with pink and white rosebuds, ferns, and foliage, and the dining room with autumn leaves, the tables being banked with pink rosebuds and ferns. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wm. Tuson of Jackson. Only a few personal friends were invited. Besides the relatives of the bride those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Bunker Sr., Miss F. McMurtree, of San Joaquin county; W. Dolan, of Livermore; Rev. Wm. Tuson, the officiating clergyman; Robt. C. Bole and B. R. Brees, of Jackson; W. A. Pritchard, Miss Daisy Fox, J. T. Phipps, Mr. Meikeljohn, John A. Phipps Jr., Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Church, G. C. Davis, and R. D. Myers of Amador City. After the ceremony the guests were treated to an elegant wedding breakfast, after which they dispersed. The bride and groom left at once for Ione, where they were given an elegant reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart. They then took the afternoon train for the southern part of the state. Upon their return from their wedding tour they will make their home in Amador City.

The groom is one of the graduates of the class of '96 from Stanford University, and the son of one of Merced county's oldest and most prominent families. The bride is the eldest daughter of the late Thos. L. Culbert, and a sister of county clerk C. L. Culbert. She is well known throughout this and adjoining counties, and has a large circle of friends, who are showering upon her their best wishes for her future happiness.

Serious Accident.

Last Saturday while Dr. A. M. Gall, accompanied by Mrs. Fitch, were returning from Sutter Creek, the front axle broke near the left hand front wheel, and the buggy dropped to the ground, throwing the doctor and Mrs. Fitch out, and severely injuring both of them. The team became frightened and started to run, dragging the doctor, who was under the buggy, with them, but he pluckily held on to the lines and succeeded in pulling them into the fence, where they stopped. The doctor found himself pretty badly hurt, but managed to get Mrs. Fitch, who was considerably bruised, to a near-by house, and then started to hobble up to the Oneida mine to telephone to Jackson for help, but luckily met Ed. Kay and Frank Sanguinetti with a double rig and were brought to Jackson. Dr. Endicott at once made an examination and found that the knee cap of the left knee was broken, and a small bone in the left foot dislocated. The accident occurred on the Jackson Gate road near the gate to the Oneida mine, and close to the creek that crosses the road at that spot. Altogether the doctor and Mrs. Fitch are lucky to escape with no more serious injuries.

Portillo Convicted.

Eulogio Portillo, who stole the check of the face value of $27 from Jesus Aguilar, and passed it on John Perovich, the proprietor of the Central Hotel restaurant, and who was caught at Ione just as he was about to leave on the train for San Francisco, was arraigned, pleaded guilty, and sentenced to four years and six months in the penitentiary. In addition to the check that had been given by the Standard Electric Company in favor of Aguilar, Portillo confessed to taking $25 in coin at the same time. This is quick work. It took just fifteen minutes from the time Perovich told Kay about it, for that officer to telephone and secure his arrest.

Crazy on Religion.

Constable Wm. Scoble of Plymouth, came over last Wednesday, bringing with him Mrs. Snable, wife of Martin Snable, who became insane, and her friends found it necessary to send her to the insane asylum. Sheriff Gregory took her to Napa last Thursday. Mrs. Snable attended the religious exercises of the Free Methodists who were holding meetings, and becoming worked up with religious fever, her mind proved unable to stand the strain. Mrs. Snable's age is 36. She has one daughter, Bessie, who accompanied her mother to the asylum.

Rainfall.

During the last storm, including Saturday and Sunday, 2.10 inches of rain fell in Jackson, making the total for the season to date 4.79 inches. For the same period last year the rainfall was 2.58 inches. There was an exceptionally heavy rainfall in the early part of the season of 1899-1900. Up to November 1 of that season the rainfall amounted to 6.21 inches. With that exception, however, the precipitation of this year is in excess of any season for many years.

AUKUM.

AUKUM, Oct. 28.—The beautiful Indian summer weather we have enjoyed for a few weeks past has been dampened down. A thunder storm started in on the 27th, and a general pour down continued all night—the hardest rain for years. A drizzling rain has continued all day to-day.

Nearly all the cattle have been driven from the mountain ranges. Beef cattle are fat and look fine. Shakes are being hauled from 20 miles above Ankum to Ione, a distance of 22 miles below here. In all 42 miles are traveled, and then sell at $8 per thousand. I should think the teamsters would strike under those circumstances.

Geo. Ames, who has had a run of intermittent fever, attended by Dr. Tiffany of Plymouth, is slowly gaining strength.

Ida Votaw, who has been prostrated with nervous troubles, is now convalescent.

Myrtle Bell, who was on a pleasure trip to Amador, was taken seriously ill while riding in her buggy. The Amador doctor was summoned and she was cared for until able to return to

She will visit her birth place before returning to California. He will engage in the construction of milling plants.

Rachel Leventon of Calaveras county, has been visiting her parents, at Cedar Grove, El Dorado county. Her sister Ethel, and brother Ed, intend returning with her. Ed to attend school and Ethel to engage in household employment. W. A. L.

Weil the Victim.

Last Saturday Henry Weil cashed a check for $43.75 drawn in favor of J. Hocking by the Standard Electric Company. This check was presented to Mr. Weil by a man supposed to be the owner, but who, it is claimed, got it by some unfair means. The real owner of the note came on and had him arrested, and he is now in jail waiting trial. Mr. Weil sold to the man merchandise amounting to $14.25, paying him the difference, $29.50. The man ordered the goods sent to Pine Grove to "Mr. McPherson." Luckily the real owner of the check, J. Hocking, came on in time and had the man arrested before he had time to go to Pine Grove and get the goods. Mr. Weil's attachment covers the merchandise sold, and about $12. E. McPherson, the accused, is well known around Pine Grove. He has concluded to stand trial, and has employed C. H. Crocker to defend him.

An Old Pioneer Gone.

M. Brum, an old resident of Lockeford, San Joaquin county, died in that town on Sunday last. Deceased was one of the pioneer residents of Jackson. He settled in this town in 1852, and was engaged in business here for about 17 years, at the place where Muldoon's saloon now stands. He then moved to Lockeford, where he remained up to the time of his death. He was engaged in the general merchandising business in that town for thirty-two years. His death was sudden. He had been slightly ailing for two or three days before, but the end was unexpected. It is thought that death was due to heart disease. He leaves a wife, two sons, and a married daughter to mourn his departure. Deceased was a brother-in-law of the late John Levinsky of Stockton, also one of the pioneers of Jackson.

Long Power Line.

Stockton is now supplied with light and power from the electric plant at Colgate, on the Yuba river, 212 miles distant. The Bay Counties Power Company, that owns the Colgate plant, and the Standard Electric Company have made an arrangement to exchange power in case of an accident to either plant. This is to avoid inconvenience to patrons using light or power. It is expected that by the 1st of December the big plant at Electra will be completed and the current turned on. This plant is not more than 50 miles from Stockton, and it is probable that most of the power for that city will be furnished from that source. The Sperry Flour Mills in Stockton are being put in readiness to start up with electric power.

The Guessing Contest.

All subscribers who are entitled to certificates in the guessing contest for prizes offered by the Press Publishing Association of Detroit, on account of paid-up subscription to the Ledger, will please send in their estimate immediately. The election in Ohio, Massachusetts and Iowa takes place next Tuesday. We have to close the matter Monday night, returning all stubs on that date. We have a few certificates left, but of course when they are exhausted cannot get any more.

Spreads Like Wildfire.

When things are "the best" they become "the best selling." Abraham Hare, a leading druggist of Belleville, O., writes: "Electric Bitters are the best selling biters I have handled in 20 years." You know why? Most diseases begin in disorders of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, blood and nerves. Electric Bitters tones up the stomach, regulates liver, kidneys and bowels, purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, hence cures multitudes of maladies. It builds up the entire system. Puts new life and vigor into any weak, sickly, run-down man or woman. Price 50 cents. Sold by D. B. Spagnoli, druggist.

Changed Hands.

T. W. Gillick, of Volcano, has leased the Pine Grove hotel, and took possession to-day. A. Huberty, the former lessee, has charge of the Oneida boarding house, and found it impossible to attend to both places. So he transferred the hotel lease to Mr. Gillick. The new proprietor is well known in the upper section, is a straightforward, industrious man, anxious to get along in the world, and we have no doubt he and his amiable wife will be able to conduct this popular hostelry in a manner that will command the liberal patronage of the traveling public, as well as the resident population.

Great Luck Of An Editor.

NEW SUITS.

Frank Ardito vs. C. B. Ardito—Action for dissolution of copartnership and for an accounting. The complaint sets forth that in August 1898, at Amador City, plaintiff and defendant entered into partnership for the purpose of conducting a saloon business in Jackson, and that they would share the profits of said business equally. That defendant was entrusted with the entire management of said business, he being an experienced saloonkeeper. That the profits of said business exceed the proportion thereof to which defendant was entitled, and that hereafter has informed plaintiff as to the disposition of the receipts. That defendant still continues to collect the partnership funds and appropriate the partnership money to his own use to the detriment of the business and the injury of plaintiff. On the 18th of August, 1901, defendant ordered plaintiff out of said place of business and warned him not to return to said saloon. On the 17th October plaintiff demanded an accounting of the partnership business, and defendant notified him that he owed him nothing, and refused to give an account of the business. D. L. Donnelly is attorney for plaintiff.

Frank Drew vs. Centennial Gold Mining Company—Action to recover the sum of $3656.30, money loaned to defendant, and for costs of suit. The complaint alleges that between the 31st day of March, 1901, and the 1st of October 1901, for the accommodation of the defendant corporation, and without any time being agreed upon for its repayment, plaintiff loaned the company the above named sum. Caminetti & Bole attorneys for plaintiff.

Correction.

We understand that supervisor Le Moine disputes the statement made by us last week, that the site of the new bridge to be erected on the Carbondale road lies partly in his district. We obtained our information from a party living in that section, and who appeared to be acquainted with the facts, and who certainly made the statement in all sincerity. We are pleased, however, to make the correction. The supervisor of district five certainly knows whether the structure extends into his territory, and if he says it does not, that settles the matter. The bridge must lie wholly within the limits of township two.
